ABSTRACT

This report is a comprehensive look at education in kindergarten through grade 12 in South Dakota for the 1994-95 school year. The average daily membership in South Dakota schools in 1994-95 was 95,395 for the elementary grades and 38,400 for grades 9 through 12. Enrollment has increased by 10,000 students since 1984-85, although minority enrollment has climbed only 1% of total enrollment since 1990. The largest single district enrolled 18,065 students in 1994-95. The first section of the report contains state specific and summary information on school and district fall 1994 enrollments, state aid indicators, attendance data, student achievement in national standardized tests, staff data, and program data. The second section is a summary of school, student, and staff data. The third section contains school and district profiles for the state's 177 districts. Student, staff, and financial data tables are included in the fourth section, and the fifth section is a glossary. (Contains 51 text graphs, 74 test tables, 177 district profiles with tables, and 23 data tables.) Errata sheets provide updates. (SLD)

Introduction

This report, "Education in South Dakota: A Statistical Profile," is a comprehensive look at K-12 education in the state for the 1994-95 school year. The report contains many interesting facts about education in South Dakota, combining information formerly contained in several separate reports produced by DECA.

The report is divided into five sections. The first section contains state specific/summary information on school and district 1994 fall enrollments, state aid indicators, attendance data, student achievement on national standardized tests, staff data and program data. The second section is a summary of school, student and staff data. The third section contains school and district profiles. The fourth section contains student, staff and financial data tables; and the fifth section contains the glossary of terms.

The 1995 South Dakota Legislature was a landmark session for education in the state. At Governor Janklow's urging, more than 500 administrative rules and about 100 state statutes were eliminated, giving local school districts more control and flexibility to decide what is best for their students. At the request of the Governor, the method for distributing state aid to education was changed from an expenditure-driven formula to a foundation aid system based on schools' adjusted average daily membership times a per-student allocation, representing a district's need, minus the district's local taxing effort.

With DECA's new mission and staff reorganization based on recommendations from Governor Janklow's Citizen Task Force on Education, the agency's role has changed from compliance and monitoring to providing technical assistance and leadership to schools. The purpose of this report is to provide information about schools to education officials, legislators, and the general public in one comprehensive report.

EARLY CHILDHOOD PROGRAMS

Many policy makers believe that educational efforts targeting disadvantaged children before they begin their traditional schooling will improve their chances of success in the K-12 system. Consequently, the federal government has expanded the Head Start and Even Start programs over the past five years. Head Start is a program which provides instruction to pre-school aged children from economically disadvantaged backgrounds. Even Start serves a similar population, but targets parents with low levels of literacy and seeks to educate not just the children, but parents and children. The data below cover public school, federally funded, and non-public accredited programs. Not included in these data are non-public, non-accredited programs.

 Even Start serves parents of children ages 0-7 who possess low literacy or are enrolled in an ABE program

FACT SUMMARY:

◆ Nearly two-thirds of all prekindergarten students enrolled in accredited programs are enrolled in Head Start or Even Start.

◆ According to 1990 Census data, there are over 22,800 children ages 3-4 in South Dakota, and 54,504 under the age of 5.

THE TYPICAL STUDENT OF ALTERNATIVE INSTRUCTION:

◆ consistently outperforms traditional South Dakota students in vocabulary sections of the Stanford and Metropolitan achievement tests

◆ overall, scores comparatively the same as traditional students on standardized ability and achievement tests

FACT SUMMARY:

◆ The term "home school" is a misnomer since the number of students receiving alternative instruction is split between home sites and school sites.

◆ The number of students receiving alternative instruction in South Dakota has risen 144% since 1990.

ALTERNATIVE SCHOOLS

In the 1994-95 school year there were 18 alternative schools throughout the state funded by federal, state and local matching grants. Thirteen schools were funded through the federal Job Training and Partnership Act (JTPA), 12 of which were also funded through the state's Youth at Risk Trust Fund. Both grants were matched by local districts. Alternative schools provide a second chance for students who have dropped out of the traditional K-12 system. With the exception of the first enrollment table, all data below represents only the federally funded alternative schools.

◆ since 1990, has been part of an increasing enrollment rate of 2,747 students per year

◆ Forty-eight percent of those participating in secondary vocational education are in a special population.

DISTANCE LEARNING

Distance Learning is the use of technology to simultaneously expand the classroom and students' educational opportunities. Instructional Television (ITV) is one example of distance learning. Schools can access ITV through recorded broadcasts to participate in various lessons. Additionally, the Rural Development Education Network (RDE-Net), provided by the Technology and Innovations in Education office, offers schools access to electronic capablities such as email, bulletin boards, conferencing, and the internet. Only five percent of classrooms have the phone access needed to participate in this technology. Subsequently, regional nodes are being established to lower the phone access costs for schools. The enrollment numbers below refer to a third type of distance learning. Five interactive secondary courses were offered at 33 schools using satellite downlink technology as part of a first-ever coordinated statewide telecommunications project.

In addition to the statewide project coordinated by DECA, a regional consortium of eight school districts known as the North Central Area Interconnect (Aberdeen, Bristol, Elm Valley, Groton, Hecla-Houghton, Leola, Warner and Webster) began offering courses to its member schools in 1994-95 via fully interactive distance learning.

FACT SUMMARY:

◆ According to a National Center for Education Statistics survey, three percent of all instructional classrooms nationwide have phone access to connect them to the internet. DECA estimates that about five percent of South Dakota's classrooms have internet access.

◆ The same survey found that 70% of public schools nationwide have access to instructional television. DECA estimates that about 95% of South Dakota schools have access to ITV.

◆ According to the NCES survey, funding was the primary barrier to acquiring or using telecommunications technology in public schools.

GENERAL EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT (GED) TEST

Created in 1942 as a service to World War II veterans, the GED provides those who did not complete high school with the opportunity to receive the equivalent of a high school diploma. The GED is administered by the GED Testing Service. The costs of the test are covered by fees paid by the test taker. The test consists of five tests which measure general knowledge and skill development in writing, social studies, science, math, literature and the arts. The minimum age requirement to take the GED in South Dakota is 17. Scored on a scale of 20-80, South Dakota requires a minimum score of 40 per test section and a total average of 45.

LIMITED ENGLISH PROFICIENCY

The goal of Bilingual Education and English as a Second Language Programs is to provide students with English language instruction so that a student will become proficient in English in order to achieve in school and eventually in the workplace.

Bilingual Education and English as a Second Language Programs are recognized methods of teaching students who do not speak English as their first language or who do not comprehend English well enough to successfully compete in school. Bilingual Education Programs allow students to study required subjects in their native language at the same time they are learning English. This allows students to maintain the native language while developing proficiency in English in order to become bilingual.

If instructional materials and native language speakers are not available or a school has students speaking several different native languages, schools provide instruction to students in English using strategies such as Whole Language and Cooperative Learning to assist them in attaining full English proficiency orally and in written form. These types of programs are referred to as English as a Second Language.

At the present time South Dakota receives an State Education Agency (SEA) grant of $100,000 to serve school districts statewide in the area of bilingual education and English as a Second Language. South Dakota has 8,516 (4,629 Public, 3,127 Bureau of Indian Affairs and 760 Non-Public) Limited English Proficient students representing 51 different languages based on the LEP Survey conducted during the 1994-95 school year.

South Dakota received federal funding for 13 bilingual programs in the 1994-95 school year. They are as follows: Todd County - 3, Pierre Indian Learning Center - 1, Little Wound - 1, Bonesteel-Fairfax - 1, Eagle Butte - 1, Wounded Knee - 1, Crazy Horse - 1, Loneman - 1, Shannon County - 2 and South Dakota Department of Education and Cultural Affairs -1.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The provisions of South Dakota Codified Law 13-37-1, define children in need of special education and related services as any person under the age of 21 years who is a resident of the state of South Dakota and who because of his/her educational needs is not adequately provided for through the usual facilities and services of the school. The Administrative Rules of South Dakota, Article 24:05, provide the rules governing special education programs for public and nonpublic schools. The data below are taken from Special Education's Child Count, which looks at enrollment in Special Education on December 1 each year.

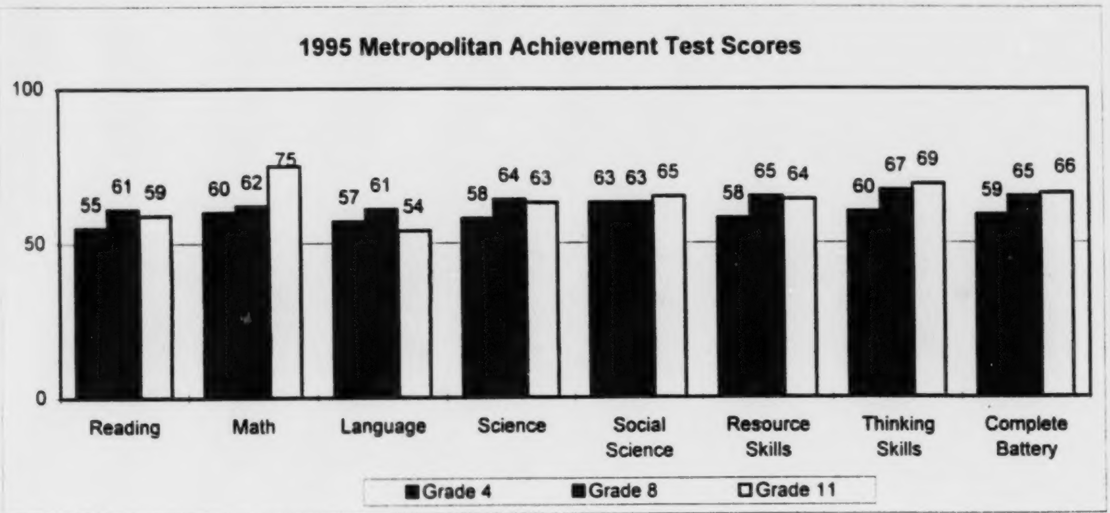
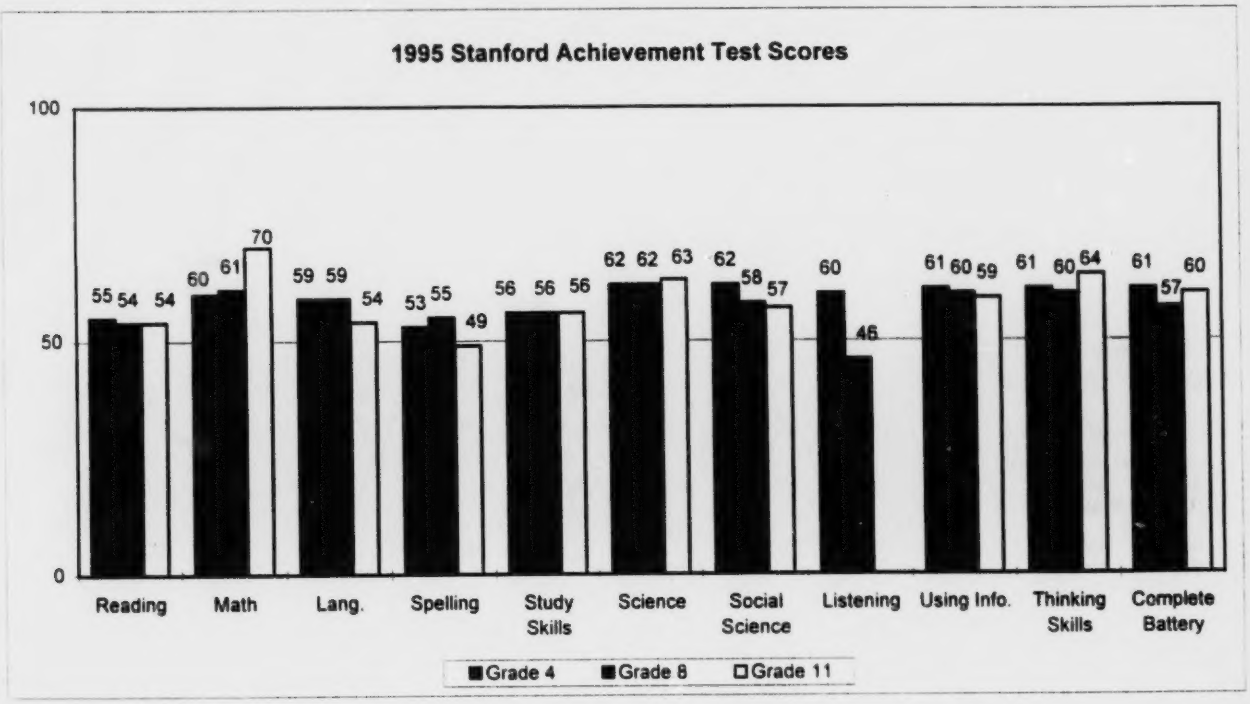
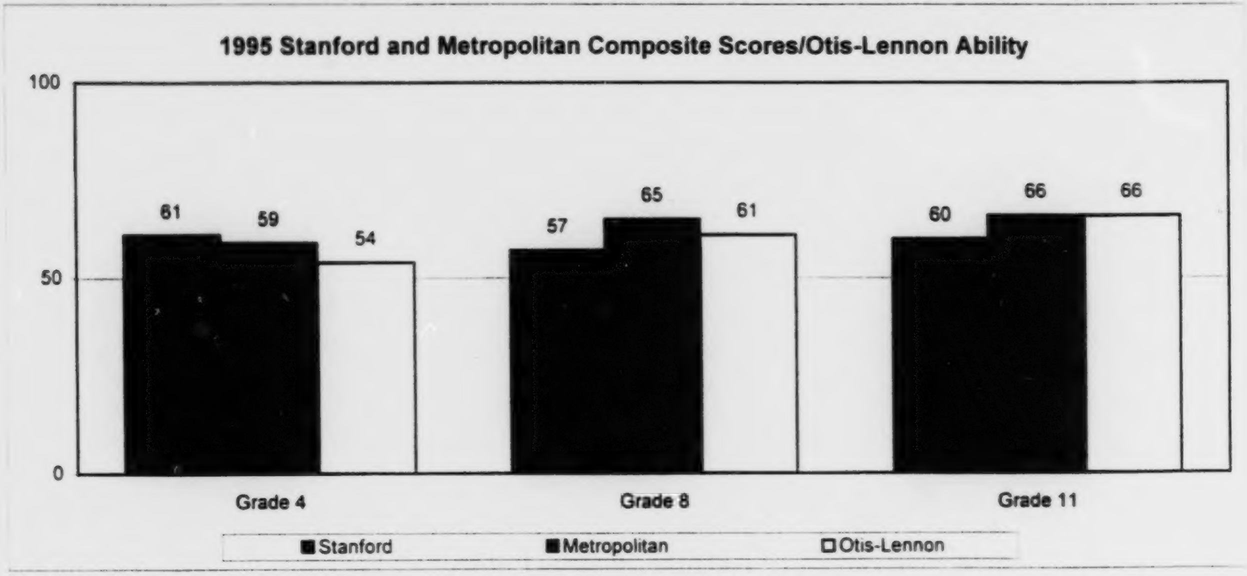
STANFORD AND METROPOLITAN ACHIEVEMENT TESTS

The Stanford Achievement Test Series, Eighth Edition, and the Metropolitan Achievement Test Series, Seventh Edition, are used in South Dakota schools as an overall measure of achievement in the basic skills. The Otis-Lennon School Ability Test, Sixth Edition, administered with both achievement tests in the spring, is a measure of abstract thinking and reasoning ability, measuring the same abilities that are emphasized in school and that are related to success in school learning. Ability scores and achievement scores should ideally be similar. Fifty-two percent of South Dakota students in grades 4, 8 and 11 were tested with the MAT 7 and 48% with the SAT 8. On the graphs below, 50 represents the national average. All scores are percentile ranks, which indicates the performance of a typical South Dakota student relative to student performance nationally.





STANFORD AND METROPOLITAN ACHIEVEMENT TESTS



STANFORD AND METROPOLITAN COMPOSITE SCORE COMPARISON

	1994		1995
	Stanford	Metropolitan	Stanford	Metropolitan
Grade 4	59	59	61	59
Grade 8	57	66	57	65
Grade 11	59	67	60	66

THE TYPICAL MAT 7/ SAT8 PARTICIPANT:

◆ MAT 7 participants scored at or above the 50th percentile in all major subject areas; SAT 8 participants scored below the 50th percentile in Listening among 8th graders and Spelling among 11th graders.

◆ MAT 7 participants achieved as high as their ability scores on the Otis-Lennon School Ability Test suggest they can; SAT 8 participants did not score according to their ability except in grade four.

FACT SUMMARY:

◆ Results from prior years indicate a consistent performance on achievement tests by students in grades 4, 8 and 11.

◆ On the Stanford, scores tend to decrease from grades four to eleven. One possible explanation for this trend may be older students' attitudes toward testing.

◆ South Dakota students taking the Stanford do not perform as well as those taking the Metropolitan. This disparity may be due to a differing level of difficulty between the tests, or the degree to which one test reflects course curriculum more than another.

ADVANCED PLACEMENT PROGRAM

The Advanced Placement program is a cooperative effort among high schools, colleges and the College Board. High schools offer advanced placement, or college-level courses in various subjects. Students in these courses have the opportunity to take exams in their subject administered by the College Board. Participating colleges then recognize those students who pass the A.P. exam by offering college credit. The tests range in subjects from calculus, biology and chemistry to U.S. history and government, English literature and composition, economics and foreign languages. The tests are scored on a scale of 1 to 5. A three or better is universally accepted as passing.

- Currently only nine percent of South Dakota's schools participate in the Advanced Placement program.
- The number of exams being taken in S.D. has doubled over the last five years.
- The percentage of students in S.D. passing A.P. exams also continues to rise.
- The University of South Dakota at Vermillion received the most test scores from S.D. test takers. South Dakota A.P. participants sent more scores to the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities than to any other out-of-state university.

NATIONAL MERIT SCHOLARS QUALIFYING TEST (NMSQT) / PRELIMINARY SAT (PSAT)

The National Merit Scholarship program provides students the opportunity to take the Preliminary SAT, or PSAT, during or prior to their junior year in high school. Graded on a scale of 20-80, the PSAT tests students, math and verbal skills. Each state is given an allocation of students to qualify as semifinalists based on the state's percentage of the national total of high school graduating seniors. In South Dakota, approximately 50 students with the highest scores become semifinalists. Finalists are then chosen out of this pool, again with a representative allocation chosen from each state. In South Dakota, approximately 30 students are annually chosen as finalists. These finalists then receive $2,000 scholarships and become eligible for additional corporate-sponsored and college-sponsored scholarships to pursue post-secondary education.

Dropout Data

Dropout Summary

1994-95 PUBLIC SCHOOL DROPOUTS

A dropout is defined as an individual who meets the following criteria: 1) was enrolled in school (grades 7-12) at some time during the previous school year, 2) was not enrolled at the beginning of the current school year, 3) has not graduated or completed an approved educational program, 4) did not tranfer to another LEA, private school, federal or state-approved educational program, 5) was not absent due to suspension or school-approved illness, or death. The dropout rate is calculated by dividing the number of dropouts by accumulative enrollment.
